Message from Vice Principal

Dear Alumnae,

Greetings from Salesian College Siliguri. I hope you are all in good health. I am glad to know that you are keeping up your enthusiasm in conducting various programmes which benefits you as well as the society at large. As human being, we all have the desire to excel in all what we do. It can be termed as 'passion for achievement' which enable us to excel as individual persons and also to contribute to the society to improve the general quality of life. The span of human life is so short compared to the enormity of the contribution which we would like to make to the society. Our unimpeded enthusiasm and intense focus on the task which is at hand can make our contribution unique and perennial.

Every desire for accomplishment should be animated by personal growth and societal contribution. As human being we are social animals, every individual achievement has a social dimension. We owe much to the society in terms to support and encouragement. We receive from the society and pay back to the society. This is true in case of wealth, health and fame. It is the society which gave us first and we are bound to multiply what we got and give it back so that many others can benefit from our 'giving'. This has been well understood by a group of American billionaires who are philanthropists. Following their footsteps, many Indian billionaires too started contributing generously to the much needed social cause such as education, health care and poverty alleviation. 'Giving' makes a person more resourceful and rich in material as well as spiritual wealth. Let 'giving' be our aim whether it is in the utilization of talents or donation to social charities for the betterment of all. It is by giving that each of us change the world.

Remembering all of you in my daily prayers,

Dr. Babu Joseph

MISUSE OF WOMEN EMPOWERMENT

Subham Agrawal
SECRETARY, AASCSC

.....Contd.

There are various laws which put males in a disadvantageous position. In many cases they are framed. The various legislations made to protect the rights of the women are used by them to harass men and sometimes to satisfy their ego. Most of the cases of divorce go under the Domestic Violence Act and cruelty under Section 498-A of IPC. Many times these cases are just filed to get money from their partners but one such false allegation is capable of ruining his career and his reputation in the society. Cases of females marrying multiple times just to get the property and maintenance from their rich husbands have also been found. From the time when women were considered weak to this time when the women are respected and all the women are not that weak, things have changed in society but the perspective of the society is still the same. If some cases relating to women-centric laws are filed initially the judgement goes against the man instead of trying to understand the complete scenario.

If a girl is raped everyone is concerned about the girl, her future and gives her sympathy. There is no wrong in this but what about a man who was charged with the offence of rape and is proven innocent. Does society treat him in the same way as they used to do before he was trapped in a false case? The answer is NO.

Now I would like to conclude, there is need to protect women through women-centric laws but the point to be kept in mind is, if any legislation is made to help the women victims it should not destroy an innocent man's life. The legislation should be made keeping the rights of both males and females. Women-centric laws are made to protect women from abuses in society. It was a need at the time of implementation and still the need exists. It is also necessary to see that no one who is innocent is getting harmed by such laws.
